

Route and delivery planning made easy with TargomoFLEET light

Lockdown measures to contain the coronavirus have forced many retailers to close their stores. Many shops are left with one option: delivery. To help affected businesses, we provide our route- and delivery-planning service free of charge during the pandemic. With TargomoFLEET light, retailers can find the optimal delivery routes with just a few clicks.

Support your business and your customers

Whether you manage a book, furniture or fashion store, many shops and customers are suffering from the coronavirus crisis. Home delivery helps you to keep your business running and serve customers who rely on your products and services.

Easy to use and share

After entering addresses, you will receive an optimized route within seconds. You can share this in a link with your deliverer, who can use it as navigation in Google Maps.

Routing made easy

With our location intelligence technology, we simplify logistical planning processes and enable you to concentrate fully on your customers and sales.

Take into account load capacity and visiting time

The software allows you to specify the load capacity of each vehicle, the maximum duration of a trip, and the required delivery or visiting time at your customer for each order.

Route planning for cars, bikes and fleets

You can plan routes for single cars and bicycles, or for fleets of up to five cars and bicycles each.

Simply use online

There's no need to download any software. Our service is accessible online: visit app.targomo.com/fleet, type your addresses, and go. There's also a short tutorial.

Many customers rely on Targomo's location intelligence technologies, for example:
